

Construction Fees

As per our Terms and Conditions for Electric Service, Union Rural Electric reserves the right to ask members to pay CIAC, Contribution in Aid to Construction. The amount of CIAC that is due will be based on the type and scope of construction.

If CIAC is required, the CIAC must be paid prior to our scheduling the construction. You will be notified if new construction fees or security deposits are needed. CIAC may be made by check, money order, cash or credit card. Please make checks payable to Union Rural Electric Cooperative and mail to:

Contribution in Aid to Construction, CIAC:

The following guidelines shall be used to calculate (CIAC):

1. The measurement to calculate the CIAC shall begin from the closest point of contact of existing electrical distribution facilities from which the line extension is to be constructed. The measurement shall follow the proposed path as determined by the Cooperative and will normally be located along property lines when practical.
2. Additional line extension charges shall be levied for changing the original path at the request of or caused by the Member/Builder for reason deemed appropriate by URE.
3. Payment of the CIAC must be made in full prior to permanent service being energized.

Please reference the Terms and Conditions for more detailed explanation of the CIAC required for the following types of construction projects:
